Notes

I. Introduction (0:20)

II. Kingdom Administration (1:32)

Both "berith" (Hebrew) and "diatheke" (Greek) mean "covenant" or "a solemn agreement or pact."

In the Bible, there are covenants between:

- Peers
- Kings and their citizens
- Kings and other kings
- God with nations and people

Many scholars have compared biblical covenants with a group of ancient Near Eastern documents called "suzerain-vassal treaties."

In these treaties, suzerains, or great kings, administered their kingdoms through treaties with vassals, or lesser kings under their authority.

A. Covenant Representatives (6:16)

God administers his kingdom by making covenants through men whom he chose to represent his covenant people.

1. Old Testament (7:16)

Covenant representative in Old Testament times:

- Adam (Genesis 1-3; Hosea 6:7)
- Noah (Genesis 6:18, 9:9-17)
- Abraham (Genesis 15 and 17)
- Moses (Exodus 19-24)
- David (Psalms 89 and 132)

Covenants with Adam and Noah are “universal covenants” because these men represented all human beings as God’s covenant people.

Covenants with Abraham, Moses and David are “national covenants” because they represented Israel and the Gentiles adopted into Israel.

2. New Covenant (9:00)

Christ is the new covenant representative (Hebrews 9:15; Romans 8:34; 1 Timothy 2:5-6).

New Testament theology is closely tied to the person and work of Christ ("Christocentric").

B. Appropriate Policies (10:56)

The policies of God's covenants were designed for specific issues that were important at different stages of biblical history.

1. Old Testament (11:52)

Policies relevant for particular stages of God's kingdom:

- Covenant of foundations:
 - God's covenant with Adam
 - Emphasized the goals of God's kingdom
 - Emphasized the role of human beings before and after the Fall

- Covenant of stability:
 - God's covenant with Noah
 - Focused on nature's stability as the secure environment where sinful humanity could serve God's kingdom purposes

- Covenant of Israel's election:
 - God's covenant with Abraham
 - Focused on the privileges and responsibilities of Israel as God's chosen people

- Covenant of law:
 - God's covenant with Moses
 - Focused on God's law as he unified the tribes of Israel into a nation

- Covenant of kingship:
 - God's covenant with David
 - Established Israel as a genuine kingdom
 - Emphasized how David's royal dynasty was to lead Israel in kingdom service

2. New Covenant (13:39)

Covenant of fulfillment:

- Comes in the last period of biblical history

- Established policies to reverse the failures of the past and fulfill God's kingdom purposes in Christ (Jeremiah 31:31).

God revealed the policies of the new covenant (Jeremiah 31:33-34).

God called Israel to move beyond outward association with his covenants and circumcise their hearts (Deuteronomy 10:16; Jeremiah 4:4).

Jesus taught that the new covenant age would unfold over time in three stages:

- Inauguration — In Christ's first advent, he fulfilled many but not all expectations of the new covenant.
- Continuation — Period between Christ's first and second advents where Jesus fulfills more new covenant expectations through his church.
- Consummation — At Christ's second advent, every expectation of the new covenant will be fulfilled.

New Testament theology was devoted to explaining the policies of the new covenant as it unfolded in these three stages.

New Testament authors had to adjust expectations for life in the new covenant (Matthew 6:12; 1 John 1:9; 2 Corinthians 11:13; Galatians 2:4).

C. Organic Development (20:32)

Each Old Testament covenant had different covenant representatives and policies but there was organic unity despite these changes.

1. Old Testament (21:27)

The policies of the covenants continued in force throughout Old Testament history from Adam to David.

2. New Covenant (23:14)

The organic development of covenants that began in the Old Testament continued with the new covenant in Christ.

The new covenant is a renewed national covenant with the descendants of Abraham and the Gentiles adopted into his family.

The new covenant renewed, rebuilt, renovated or refreshed the policies that God had established in previous covenants.

Every dimension of New Testament theology incorporates and builds on the theology of the Old Testament.

III. Dynamics of Interaction (29:55)

God determined how the dynamics of his covenants would come to fruition.

God's interactions with his people are often beyond human comprehension, but his ways are always good and wise (Deuteronomy 29:29, Isaiah 55:8-9, Job, Ecclesiastes).

A. Divine Benevolence (32:09)1. Old Testament (33:30)

God's benevolence both initiated and sustained the relationships established by his covenants.

God showed kindness to each covenant representative and to the people they represented:

- Adam in the covenant of foundations

- Noah in the covenant of stability

- Abraham in the covenant of Israel's election

- Moses in the covenant of law

- David in the covenant of kingship

2. New Covenant (37:15)

The New Testament displays God's benevolence toward Christ (Matthew 3:16-17, 12:18, 28:18; Luke 3:22; Acts 2:31-33; Romans 8:11).

The New Testament focuses on union with Christ.

The believer's union with Christ is two-fold:

- "In Christ": The people of the new covenant are identified with Christ in God's heavenly court (Ephesians 1:13).
- "Christ in us": Christ is present and at work within believers through the Holy Spirit (Romans 8:10-11).

The New Testament teaches that, prior to Christ's return, God shows common grace to all people in the visible church.

B. Tests of Loyalty (43:11)

God tested the loyalty of his people in every biblical covenant, including the new covenant.

1. Old Testament (46:35)

God tested the loyalty of his covenant people in his testing of his covenant representatives (Genesis 22:12; Deuteronomy 8:2).

- Adam

- Noah

- Abraham

- Moses

- David

2. New Covenant (49:16)

As the new covenant representative, Jesus passed every test of loyalty that God required of him (Hebrews 4:15; Philippians 2:8).

Jesus provided permanent atonement and eternal forgiveness to all who believe in him (Matthew 8:17; Acts 8:32-33; Romans 6:10; 1 Peter 2:22-25).

Tests of loyalty are still in effect for the church, the people of the new covenant.

- “In Christ”: True believers are judged to have passed the test because Christ passed the test on our behalf (1 Timothy 3:16; Romans 4:23-25).

- “Christ in us”: Christ’s Spirit works within believers to make them holy.

God tests us to move us forward in sanctification (James 1:2-3).

The church consists of false and true believers and God’s tests of loyalty reveal whether or not we have saving faith (1 John 2:19).

C. Consequences (58:21)

1. Old Testament (58:54)

God issued both blessings and curses in the Old Testament covenants:

- Foundations:
 - God cursed Adam with suffering and death due to his disobedience.
 - God promised victory over the serpent.

- Stability:
 - Noah received blessings for his faithful service.
 - Noah faced curses after the flood.

- Israel's election:

Abraham received the consequences of blessings and curses as God's covenant representative.

- Law:

Moses' law spelled out many specific blessings and curses that would come to God's covenant people.

- Kingship:

David received the consequences of blessings and curses as he was faithful and unfaithful.

2. New Covenant (1:01:36)

Christ, the representative of the new covenant experienced both God's curses and God's blessings (Galatians 3:13).

Jesus didn't come under God's curses because of his personal sins (Isaiah 53:1-12; Philippians 2:8-9).

Jesus' resurrection and ascension were the just reward for his perfect obedience to God.

The consequences of the new covenant also impact the church, the people of the new covenant:

- "In Christ": Every eternal blessing of God has already been assigned to true believers through Christ (Ephesians 1:3).

- "Christ in us": Jesus works in true believers so they experience the consequences of obedience and disobedience in their daily lives.

Hardships and curses false believers endure in life are foretastes of eternal curses they will receive when Christ returns (Luke 12:45-46; Romans 2:4-5).

The blessings true believers experience in life are foretastes of eternal blessings at the consummation (Hebrews 12:1-11; Revelation 21:6-8).

When Christ returns, true believers will receive their eternal inheritance in the glorious new creation.
