Notes

I. Introduction (0:28)

Prophet: God’s covenant ambassador who proclaims and applies God’s word, especially to warn of judgment against sin and to encourage the kind of loyal service to God that leads to his blessings.

II. Old Testament Background (3:05)

A. Qualifications

Old Testament prophets were ambassadors or emissaries of God’s covenants.

False prophets used trickery, superstition and demonic powers to represent their false gods.

Four qualifications for true prophets of God from Deuteronomy 18:17-22:

- Called by God
- Given God’s word to speak
- Demonstrated loyalty to God
- Authenticated by the fulfillment of their message
1. Called by God (8:27)

God called many people to serve him as prophets.

God frequently issued prophetic calls directly to the prophet.

God also commissioned prophets indirectly.

2. Given God’s Word (10:47)

The Holy Spirit inspired prophets to speak whatever God commanded.

The Holy Spirit utilized the prophets’ personalities and perspectives as he presented his message.

The Holy Spirit guaranteed that the words of true prophets were authoritative and infallible.
3. Loyal to God (13:14)

   The Holy Spirit did not give prophets complete freedom to say whatever they pleased.

   Prophets had to ensure that their prophecies agreed with God’s existing revelation.

4. Authenticated by Fulfillment (15:03)

   Prophets’ predictions had to come true.

   Prophets accurately relayed the words of God.

   Some prophecies:

   - Relatively quick fulfillment.

   - Fulfillments were not so immediate.
Sometimes the words of true prophets did not come to pass precisely as they stated them.

- Warned of the curses that would come if people persisted in sin.
- Offered the blessings that would come if people acted faithfully.

The outcomes of true prophecy are consistent with God’s covenant and character, and authenticate the ministry of his true prophets.

B. Function (20:48)

1. Authority (21:05)

In the ancient Near East, suzerains (powerful emperors):

- Ruled over vassals (smaller nations).
- Imposed a treaty or covenant on vassals.
- Employed ambassadors to administer and enforce their covenants.
God often described his relationship to his people in terms of a suzerain-vassal covenant. He appointed prophets to:

- Be his authoritative ambassadors.
- Remind his vassal people of the terms of his covenant.

2. Task (23:39)

Covenants between suzerains and vassals detailed the arrangement between them:

- The suzerain’s benevolence in the past
- The loyalty the vassal was required to render
- The consequences of the vassal’s obedience or disobedience
  - Blessings if the vassal obeyed
  - Curses if the vassal disobeyed

Prophets were assigned the task of reminding God’s people of the details of his covenant.

- In good standing: encouraged Israel to remain faithful.
- Not in good standing: charged Israel with rebellion and disloyalty.
3. Methods (25:50)

The most common method the prophets used to accomplish their task was speaking:

- Accused people of sin
- Commanded them to obey
- Encouraged them to persevere
- Warned them of judgment
- Offered them blessings
- Told parables
- Foretold the future
- Prayed
- Interceded for God’s people
- Wrote down their words

Prophets also used other methods that relied more on special actions:

- Prophetic signs and wonders
- Symbolic actions and spiritual encounters
C. Expectations (28:59)

1. Historical Development (29:24)

As God’s kingdom shifted and grew throughout history, the role of prophets adjusted to meet its changing needs.

- Pre-Monarchy: The period of God’s covenants with Adam, Noah, Abraham and Moses.

  - Adam and Eve: received God’s revelation by walking and talking with him.

  - Noah: prophesied covenant judgment against the world.

  - Abraham: directly received God’s plans for the future.

  - Moses: administered the Ten Commandments and the Book of the Covenant by:
    - Explaining it to the people.
    - Governing them according to its terms.
    - Exhorting them to be faithful to God.
• Monarchy: The nation of Israel had settled the Promised Land and was living under the rule of a king.

  o The office of prophet became focused on the central arenas of power.

  o The primary role of the prophet was to remind the kings and their courts to serve God faithfully.

  o The prophets reminded the people of the Lord’s covenant requirements and the consequences of their behavior.

• Exile: The people of Israel and Judah did not obey and were exiled from the Promised Land.

  o The prophets’ emphasis was on restoring the king and the kingdom.

  o Prophets encouraged God’s people to repent of their sin and return to covenant faithfulness.
• Restoration: A partial end to the period of exile beginning around 539/538 B.C.

  o Still no king in Israel or Judah.

  o Relatively few prophets, but faithful prophets encouraged people to be faithful to God.

  o Expectations that God would fulfill his promises and return one of David’s heirs to the throne.

  o Hoped that God would have compassion despite their sin, and restore the kingdom for his own name’s sake.

Prophets were always God’s authoritative ambassadors who were to hold God’s people accountable to his covenant.

Expectations for the office of prophet in the New Testament were drawn primarily from the post-exilic restoration.

Future prophets would herald and accompany the messianic king.
2. Specific Prophecies (39:30)

- Herald of the Lord: Would announce the Lord was coming to conquer all his enemies and to restore the Davidic monarchy.

- Prophet like Moses: Would rise up to lead the people in righteousness, just as Moses had done.

- Restoration of prophecy: False prophets would be purged from the land and true prophets would increase.

III. Fulfillment in Jesus (44:47)

A. Qualifications (45:25)

1. Called by God (45:52)

Simeon revealed that Jesus was called to be a prophetic revelation and sign to his people.
At Jesus baptism God the Father and the Holy Spirit showed that he had been called as a prophet.

The action that most clearly identified Jesus as a prophet was his transfiguration.

2. Given God’s Word (50:22)

Jesus stated that he had been given God’s word to speak.

3. Loyal to God (52:48)

Jesus insisted that he was carrying out the Father’s will.
4. Authenticated by Fulfillment (54:14)

Jesus’ prophecies were fulfilled.

- Sometimes his words came true immediately.

- Other times, his prophecies were fulfilled later.

- Not all of Jesus’ prophecies were fulfilled in his lifetime.

We can and should be utterly confident that Jesus will eventually fulfill all his promises.

B. Function (59:48)

1. Authority (1:00:34)

   Jesus had authority to speak on behalf of his Father.
Jesus’ authority from the Father is evident:

- Whoever received him also received the Father, and whoever rejected him also rejected the Father.

- Those who turn away will eventually recognize the authenticity of the message.

2. Task (1:02:47)

In his role as prophet, Jesus’ task was the same as the prophets before him:

- Proclaimed the truth of God’s kingship and authority.

- Confirmed that the terms of the covenant were still in force.

- Affirmed the consequences of the covenant.

Jesus specifically identified himself as the announcer of the restoration of God’s kingdom that had been prophesied in Isaiah chapter 61.
3. Methods (1:07:35)

Jesus’ primary method for accomplishing his prophetic task was speaking.

- Accused people of sin
- Commanded them to repent and obey God’s will
- Encouraged them to persevere in faithfulness
- Warned of coming judgment
- Offered blessings to the faithful
- Told parables
- Foretold the future
- Prayed
- Interceded for God’s people

Jesus did not write down his teachings; his disciples did this for him.
Other methods:

- More miracles than any other prophet in the history of God’s people.

- Symbolic actions:

  Received baptism from John the Baptist

- Spiritual encounters

  o Triumphed over the Devil’s temptation

  o Exorcised demons

C. Expectations (1:10:44)

All the prophetic expectations came to fulfillment in the person and ministry of Jesus.

1. Herald of the Lord (1:11:16)

The special prophet foretold was to announce the arrival of the Lord.
John the Baptist announced the coming of Jesus.

John fulfilled his prophetic mission by identifying Jesus as the Son of God.

2. Prophet Like Moses (1:13:43)

Jesus was the prophet like Moses whom the Old Testament had anticipated.

- Performed miracles on a scale that hadn’t been seen since Moses.
- Prophesied with greater knowledge than anyone since Moses.
- Knew God face to face.
- Ensured that all who responded in faith would be counted as perfect covenant keepers and inherit God’s kingdom.

Jesus was the greatest prophet of all time.
Jesus is the fullest and clearest revelation of the Father’s identity, will and salvation.

3. Restoration of Prophecy (1:18:02)

The Old Testament anticipated a day when false prophets would be eliminated and true prophets would multiply.

The multiplication of true prophets:

- Began when Jesus ordained his apostles to preach the word.

- Continued on the day of Pentecost.

The end of false prophecy:

- Began to be restrained by the multiplication of true prophets.

- Eventually, Jesus will completely do away with false prophets.
IV. Modern Application (1:21:59)

The Westminster Larger Catechism, answer number 43, summarizes Christ’s prophetic work in terms of his revelation to the church.

A. Extent of Revelation (1:23:20)

Christ is the one who speaks to us through all of Scripture and true prophecy.

The whole Bible is Christ’s prophetic word to his church.

Jesus’ prophetic ministry preceded his incarnation.

Jesus’ prophetic ministry continued after he ascended into heaven.

All Scripture is authoritative and relevant to the life of the modern church.
B. Content of Revelation (1:29:05)

The whole Bible was delivered to us by Christ.

- God’s will is the terms of his covenant and its application to our lives.

- Our edification is our proper understanding of the terms of that covenant.

- Our salvation consists of covenant blessings.

1. Interpret Scripture (1:31:16)

A proper understanding of Jesus’ office of prophet can help us interpret all of Scripture.

The words of Scripture are the covenant messages of the great King that require an obedient response.
The best way to interpret Scripture is according to the structure of the covenant:

- God’s benevolence
- Required loyalty
- Promised consequences

When reading the Bible we should always ask questions like:

- How does this passage reveal the benevolence of God toward his people?
- How does it reveal the loyalty he requires of his people?
- What does it say about the curses that come on those who refuse to be faithful?
- What blessings does it offer to those who hear and obey?

2. Submit to Scripture (1:35:18)

Understanding Christ’s role as prophet can help us submit to Scripture.
• Repentance:

Prophets threatened covenant curses in order to drive sinners to repentance.

- Part of Jesus’ ministry.

- One of the most common themes in Scripture.

- The act of turning from rebellion against God and submitting to his will.

- Initially takes place when men and women first come to Christ in saving faith.

- Should be a daily practice.

By practicing daily repentance, believers honor Christ’s prophetic work and pursue the blessings of God’s covenant.
• Faith

Jesus and other biblical prophets encouraged continued faith in God and obedience to his covenant.

God’s promises are sure, and Christ will eventually return to finish what he started.

Until Jesus returns, believers are to be characterized by repentance from sin, and by perseverance in faith.
